

Curtis MacGeever · 1st
Senior Technical Consultant at Anthesis Group
1mo · 📍

Two great friends of mine, Melanie Désert and Pippa Neill, have recently created a sustainability podcast and were kind enough to invite me along for a chat! Please have a listen and check out their new website. Any questions, get in touch! <https://lnkd.in/dShqPye>

Corporate Sustainability with Curtis MacGeever - EarthRights
open.spotify.com

Alison

It's so good mel! Perfect daily walk podcast material. Last weeks one on pervasive metaphors and the climate crisis

Dear All

Further to Howard's article on Doughnut Economics in the Feb edition of the Parish News and our discussions on the Dasgupta Review at our last meeting I have come across a website which may be of interest. The link is <https://earthrights.co.uk/> It was set up by Melanie Desert who has a degree in International Human Rights and Environmental Protection and lives in the village. She has produced a number of podcasts which are extremely informative and professional and if you spare half hour or so they are well worth listening to. Two very relevant to our discussions are on "Corporate Sustainability" <https://soundcloud.com/earthrights/corporate-sustainability-with-curtis-macgeever> and "Oil or Life" which involves another Cold ash resident, Miles Rudgeley, <https://earthrights.co.uk/portfolio/oil-or-life-with-miles-rudgeley/>

I am sure you are also all aware that Bill Gates has just published another book "How to Avoid a Climate Disaster", which hopefully will have some influence on national and international action on climate change.

Kind regards
John

Loved the podcast Mel! Well done to you both it's amazing, so impressed. If you haven't already its worth subscribing to the STOP Ecocide newsletters and campaign, really active group trying to get Ecocide as an international criminal...something!

Sridhar Venkatapuram ✓
@sridhartweet

This felt good to do to start out 2021. Convo w/ Melanie of @EarthRights_ on ethical recovery.

@KingsGHI

EarthRights @EarthRights_ · 24 Feb

NEW EPISODE!! !! EarthRights discusses the need for an ethical recovery from Covid-19. Very excitingly, we speak to @sridhartweet about refocusing resources on those most vulnerable and creating a recovery based on ...

Show this thread

13:58 · 24 Feb 21 · Twitter Web App

ameliaslay

Highly recommend this podcast!

EarthRights
By The human rights and environmental podcast, hosted ...

Go @earthrights_ and @meldesert3!

Miles Rudgeley
10 February at 19:41 · 📍

I recently joined EarthRights' most recent episode discussing the delicate compromise that the developing world is now tasked - between environmental sustainability on one hand, and economic prosperity on the other.

Ecuador is a classic case, where exploitation of oil in the Amazon basin is justified by its funding of ambitious social welfare projects, but often at the detriment of its ecosystems and indigenous peoples. <https://open.spotify.com/episode/7dUnprYZPFvSYvpyFgaJ1g>

Earth Rights was recently set up by Melanie Désert and Pippa Neill as a platform for discussing human rights and environmental issues. It's a great series so please check out and stay tuned for more at www.earthrights.co.uk/ / www.instagram.com/earthrights_/ / www.twitter.com/EarthRights_

WITH MILES RUDGELEY
EPISODE SIX

OPEN.SPOTIFY.COM
OIL or LIFE with Miles Rudgeley - EarthRights
In episode 6 of the EarthRights Podcast, we talk with Miles R...

You, Pippa Neill and 53 others · 2 comments

Now, onto your work with EarthRights - I would be more than happy to be on your podcast (and that's wonderful that you're also approaching Annamaria!) Happy to chat. The next couple of weeks are a bit hectic - are you free April 14 in the early evening your time?

Kind regards,
Michael

Michael Fakhri
UN Special Rapporteur on the Right to Food

EarthRights 12 Feb
to contact, rhannich ✓

From: John Hislop <rhannich@waitrose.com>
Subject: something else

Message:
Mel, Lisa Rudgeley passed on the link to your podcast with Miles and I wanted to congratulate you both on a most informative and professional production. You both clearly knew what you were talking about and it was so refreshing to hear that the informed younger generation are thinking so seriously about the worrying issues the world is facing. Your podcast was particularly relevant as I have in the last week been looking at the Dasgupta review,

Also I've been listening to your podcast! It's so interesting 17:14

The Cuba one was so good. Loads of things I didn't know! 17:15

And the one about linguistics and metaphors was so interesting I loved it 17:15

Melis Omalar @MelisOmalar · 4d

"The issue with #AI and #algorithms, which are often used to decide who to employ or promote at work or who to profile during criminal investigations, is that they have been designed and run by men, particularly white men." - @EarthRights_

The digital gender divide - Earth Rights earthrights.co.uk

Fil Sys
Hey there!

Just wanted to say congrats on your podcast collaboration - had a little look at it today and was really cool

👏👏

12:01

Like Comment Share

Luke Atkins and 54 others

Alice Ferns
Ahh pippa this is amazing! I want to use these for school especially for world earth day! Xx

4 d Love Reply 1

Pippa Neill Alice Ferns ah thank you so mu...

Alice Ferns Pippa Neill omg yes yes please...

Anne Bridget
'A deep dive into the language of climate change'... I couldn't be prouder! Great to see you all doing so well. Best of luck 🍀

19 m Like Reply

Hey Pip! I completely forgot to message you about your podcast last week! And I just listened to your second episode and it's so good! I found out so much from it. I can't believe that they use the same plastic for clothes and ketchup bottles!

18:42

I also love how you put down the resources for how to find out which brands are sustainable as well!

18:42

Greg Morrison
Just listened to this – really interesting/frightening! Thanks for sharing. Will keep an eye out for ep2.

3 mths Like Reply More